A new Web site could make it somewhat easier for OTC Bulletin Board -listed companies to reach investors.

The Web site, otcprofiler.com, is freely available to investors, although companies have to pay a fee...

...to be listed. The first 25 companies that sign up get an additional three months' service for free.

In return, otcprofiler.com posts its clients' news releases, e-mail addresses, a list of telephone contacts and a hyperlink...

...profiles, OTCprofiler.com provides links to over 40 general financial Web sites. The site also offers a free e-mail newsletter to subscribers, who are automatically entered in the Web site's monthly cash sweepstakes.

...better chance of keeping a tight hold on your existing customer base by offering online brokerage, especially considering the non-bank competition already offering these services.

"Banks that provide this kind..."

...Texas-based Q-Up, a seller of front-end systems for banks to offer online brokerage services in addition to home banking on their Web sites.

Banks also can generate more revenue through online brokerage services. "For fully automated electronic trade, a bank can charge customers $15 per trade and..."

...percent," says Ed

Neumann, the Washington director of the Boston-based Dove Associates consultancy.

Online brokerage is a growth area and banker interest has increased significantly in recent months, Neumann says. His comment is supported by several recent announcements by brokerage firms and banks that plan to offer online brokerage services.

Q-Up Signs Bank

A small software developer in Austin, Texas is quickly signing mid-sized Texas banks for its online brokerage services.

Big Spring, Texas-based The State National Bank recently chose Q-Up's Preferred Virtual Broker. Some of the product's features include:

- * Online order entries for stocks and options;
- * Real...

...new account application; and

- * Online request for an option account kit.

State National Bank routes online users to a third - party brokerage through the bank's Web site. Customers pay between $15 to $20 per trade; first time customers receive $50 for...

...is expensive compared with other online services, analysts say. "Online trading reduces costs for discount brokerages since manual charges can cost $75 and up per trade," Neumann says.

Larkin's service...98. Customers can download account information into Microsoft Investor's Portfolio Manager. E*Trade's products support the Open Financial Exchange (OFX) messaging standard. American Express [AXP] announced a similar arrangement with Microsoft this week.

Also, New York-based digiTRADE Inc. recently teamed with Citicorp [CCI] to offer alternative brokerage services. The service is accessible through a touch-tone phone only, not PC. The vendor partnered with Citicorp Investment Services (CIS) of New York, to offer CitiPhone Trading to brokerage customers.

The service is available 24 hours a day and offers real-time market quotes...

...Toronto-based Toronto Dominion Bank also recently partnered with a communications firm to offer automated brokerage. The bank teamed with Atlanta-based QuadraVision Communications to develop a Web site with the...

...building-materials industries, as well as some agricultural products.

But other problems also plague the company . Many German rail-freight shippers are sharply critical of DB Cargo for increasing cargo rates and for making it difficult or overly expensive for third - party transport firms to use the extensive German track network .

At a recent meeting in Dresden, Muentefering suggested that the German government consider forcing Deutsche...
